International Affairs and Diplomacy (UOC, UNITAR)

The Universitat Oberta de Catalunya is delighted to offer the Master's Degree in International Affairs and Diplomacy in collaboration with the United Nations Institute for Training and Research (UNITAR). The online course's academic programme has been designed for diplomats and government officials involved in international affairs as well as others involved in international relations and seeking a future career in this field. With over 20 years' experience as an online university, the UOC's excellent reputation has been earned through the quality of its ICT-based teaching. The University's over 60,000 graduate and postgraduate students from 87 countries have been a key contributor to the global impact and value of our academic work. The programme of studies outlined in this brochure aims to provide students with a general introduction to international affairs and specific geopolitical issues, while developing and strengthening the diplomacy skills required for both effectiveness and efficiency in supporting governments, universal and regional organizations, non-governmental actors and the private sector. The goal of this master's degree is to help mould the next generation of leaders within international public service, business and non-governmental organizations. Upon successful completion of the UOC-UNITAR master's degree programme, you will be able to tackle issues related to foreign engagement across a variety of geographical locations and through multiple academic disciplines, enabling you to advance your professional career.
